

EX-SURROGATE ARNOLD DEAD.

Stroke of Apoplexy
Leads to Paralysis that Proves Fatal.

John H. V. Arnold, ex-Surrogate and ex-President of the Board of Aldermen, died at his home, 300 Broadway, at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Frank, of the Astor House, was called. This was Judge Arnold's third attack of apoplexy, and paralysis began to set in immediately.

By advice of Dr. Frank he was removed in an ambulance to the Hudson Street Hospital, where he lingered until this morning.

Mrs. Arnold and her daughter, Miss Estelle Arnold, and his two sons, Mortimer P. and Reginald H. Arnold, were at the bedside through the night. Another son, Stanford N. Arnold, is at Yale.

The dying man had fitful returns of consciousness during the night, but paralysis became general, ending in complete collapse at 6 o'clock and death at 8.30.

An Eventful Career.

Judge Arnold was sixty-one years old. He was born in New York, his father, John Arnold, being an old-time capitalist interested in mercantile business.

John H. V. Arnold graduated from the College of the City of New York and was admitted to the bar in 1860. He was always an ardent Democrat, affiliated with Tammany Hall. He was the organizer of the "Young Democratic Club," which afterward became the present Democratic Club, with Mr. Arnold as its president.

In 1888 he was elected President of the Common Council, and in 1893 elected Surrogate.

His health came to him in 1898, and in the fall of that year he went to Europe in the vain effort to repair his broken health.

EX-SURROGATE ARNOLD.

A hue and cry was started over his absence from the office bench and an investigation of his office was agitated in the spring of 1899. Thus, Surrogate Arnold was forced to resign. Governor Roosevelt naming a Republican in his place.

His Ambitions.

Judge Arnold was a member of nine of the most prominent clubs in New York. He lived at No. 372 West End avenue, and was a member for many years of Dr. Heber Newton's All Souls' Broad Episcopal Church in Madison avenue.

The body was removed this morning to the home in West End avenue. No arrangements for the funeral have yet been made.

WAR DIARY OF ANDRE FOUND.

Daily Doings of Revolutionary Spy, with Maps and Data.

LONDON, March 30.—The diary of Major Andre, after lying hidden for a hundred years, has been discovered in England. This interesting find was made by Lord Grey, the other day, while he was going over a lot of old family papers that probably had not been disturbed since the conclusion of the American War of Independence.

Lord Grey's great-grandfather was a commander of the British troops in America at the time and Andre served on his staff. This accounts for the diary being in the possession of the present Peer.

The diary is apparently the original, but in order to make sure that it is not a copy Lord Grey is sending over to the United States to secure samples of Andre's handwriting, none of which can be obtained here.

The diary is a story of the campaign, day by day, during the years 1776-1778. It is simply but interestingly told from the soldier's standpoint, and is accompanied by maps, apparently drawn by Andre himself, and with a skill that would make him the equal of any military hydrographer of to-day.

The diary comes too early to throw new light upon the motives which prompted the tragic ending of his career, but it gives interesting glimpses of the personality of one of the historical figures of the Revolution.

FATAL FALL DOWNSTAIRS.

Philip Michael Found Dead in Bed a Few Hours Later.

Philip Michael, son of John Michael, a well-known retired merchant of Diapton, S. I., was found dead in bed last night at the home of his father. He was ascending the stairs early in the evening, when he faintly fell down the flight. He did not seem to be seriously hurt. Young Michael was prominent in social circles on Staten Island and belonged to several lodges.

PRINCE FAVORS FORCE IN RUSSIA.

Krapotkin Denounces Czar's Rule in Russia and Hopes for Subjects' Freedom.

ANARCHIST PRINCE KRAPOTKIN.

Emperors, kings and rulers of every name have used violence and continue to use violence. Then why should we not adopt the same measures?

That was the text of Prince Peter Krapotkin's talk to-day with a reporter for The Evening World on the troubles in Russia.

The Prince is an Anarchist, banished from his fatherland years ago for beginning the agitation among Russians that has now culminated in the most threatening attempt at revolution since 1824.

The Prince is at the Hotel Gerard, in West Forty-fourth street, and he talked freely on the atrocities of Czar Nicholas. He is a scientist, a nobleman of birth, a student of literature and a member of the Royal Geographical Society, of London. He favors nihilism, but would accept as a compromise a constitutional monarchy if the present Government of Russia were overthrown.

To-day the leader of all Russian Anarchists delivered a lecture at Berkeley Lyceum on "Philosophy and Ideal Anarchy." Before he appeared in the Lyceum he eagerly scanned the newspapers for news from Russia.

"And yet," the Prince said, "I should not like to see the present Czar removed. He is the foremost destroyer of anarchy since Peter the Great. He has no education and his intelligence is of the lower order."

"The 12,000 students of the Russian universities are exempt from military service, and the exemption is time-honored. Increased at the holding of a student meeting, the Czar ordered that those who persisted in holding such demonstrations should be drafted into the army."

"The whirlwind of popular indignation started and alarmed him, but he has not dared to yield, even though the highest families of the Empire, losing their sons to the army, have joined in vehement protest. Compromise, however, will follow, and the sentences never will be executed, though formally they will stand unrescinded."

Prince Krapotkin produced a letter which he said he had received from a Russian lady of high rank. It read:

"You probably have heard of this most barbarous measure which will now be applied to the students, who will be compelled to enter the army merely for having held meetings."

"Formerly the measure was applied by the Czar when they wanted to punish the disobedient. Now it will be applied to the best educated men in all Russia."

"In Kieff the students held a meeting, and now it is said that 181 of them will be ordered to become soldiers. The papers have been forbidden to mention it, but the youth here in St. Petersburg cannot remain indifferent to this proceeding. How do you like such a measure? I am boiling with indignation, but can write no more."

"The people here are terrified. The students arrested have been treated like criminals, not even allowed to see their parents."

Concluding, the Prince said: "It is an awful state of affairs, but right is right. The people of Russia are oppressed, but soon they will be freed from their suffering."

Krapotkin is a small man, with a long beard, sparkling eyes and a fascinating manner that never fails to captivate an audience.

Three-Mile Dash of Lawyer Down Pater-son's Busiest Street.

An exciting chase after a runaway automobile took place on Main street, the busiest thoroughfare of Pater-son, N. J., to-day.

Frederick J. McMahon, a young lawyer and court stenographer to Judge of the Supreme Court Jonathan Dixon, was on his way to his office in his new machine, when it became unmanageable.

The brake refused to work, and the best the lawyer could do was to steer the auto out of danger's way. Two men named Reynolds were on their way to their place of business in their auto, and, seeing McMahon's plight, started to chase him.

They overtook and forged ahead of the lawyer and gave warning to those on the streets to clear the way. The lively run continued for three miles, when the runaway came to a standstill by the gasoline burning out.

Many were the narrow escapes of persons on the streets, but luckily no one was injured. Lawyer McMahon was badly scared.

BOY STRIKERS STAND FIRM.

Winders in New Brunswick Show No Signs of Weakening.

About half of the forty boys employed in the winding-room of the Norfolk and New Brunswick hosiery mill at New Brunswick, N. J., who went on strike yesterday, are still out. The superintendent of the mill said to-day that half of the strikers had returned to work, and he expected that the others would be in their old places at work on Monday morning.

The strikers made some threats last night against the boys who refused to join in the strike, and the youngsters were escorted home by the older employees.

Graham's Policy Jury Disagrees.

The jury in the case of Graham's Policy, who was on trial before Justice Fuesman on the charge of perjury, was discharged yesterday after being out for over twenty hours. It failed to agree.

When Jacob Kunke and Martin Johnson, charged with criminal assault on the agents of the Gerry Society, were arraigned in the West Side Court today another prisoner was added to the group. Kunke and Johnson are charged with having assaulted five little girls in the neighborhood of Thirty-seventh street and Eighth avenue, where the prisoners lived. When they were arrested last Wednesday evening by the Gerry officers and the West Thirty-seventh street police, a large crowd gathered and threatened to lynch them.

The new prisoner is Allen Van Houten, twenty-nine years old, of No. 23 West Thirty-second street, a waiter in a Sixth avenue restaurant. He formerly lived at No. 94 Eighth avenue and there, it is alleged, the assault on the girls took place.

Agent Pisarra took to court Francis Koenig, fourteen years old, of No. 23 West Thirty-seventh street, who admitted he had been among the men in company with the five girls arrested and detained as witnesses.

The admissions of the six girls go to show that a remarkably vile system of crime was pursued by the gang of men. The police say that there are two more men connected with the gang who will be arrested as soon as located.

The three prisoners are held in 12-07 ball chain.
